

Jay M. Anderson, MBA
Senior Vice President, Performance Improvement and Chief
Information Officer

As Senior Vice President, Performance Improvement and Chief Information Officer at Northwestern Memorial HealthCare (NMHC) in Chicago, Illinois, Jay Anderson has played an integral role in developing and implementing NMHC's strategy to be a national leader in quality, patient safety and information management services. Mr. Anderson has served in prior senior management roles at Northwestern Memorial Hospital including Vice President responsible for the daily operations within Surgery, Imaging, Cardiac and GI Services.

Jay received his BS from Miami University, Oxford, Ohio and holds a Masters in Business Administration degree from the University of Chicago. Prior to NMH, Mr. Anderson held positions within the General Electric Company and began his career as an Officer in the United States Navy within the Nuclear Power Program. In addition to his work at NMHC, Jay speaks regularly on the topics of healthcare quality, patient safety and process improvement, and teaches healthcare operations within the Northwestern University Masters of Medical Informatics Program.