Mr. Smith has worked in the health information technology field for 20 years and serves as the SVP of Information Technology & CIO at Banner Health, one of the nation’s largest not-for-profit healthcare systems. His passion is helping to transform traditional healthcare delivery models by digitally empowering consumers and providers with highly integrated tools and information. He believes that information and technology hold the keys to improved quality, lower costs, and increased patient engagement and satisfaction. He enjoys spending time with his wife and five teenage children, hiking, mountain biking, running, and enjoying the outdoors. Mr. Smith received his bachelor's degree in Computer Science and holds an MBA in IT Management.
